EASY COIN FOR MODERN BOXER

Old Timers Had to Work Hard For Small Purses

The modern fighter should put himself on the back and accept his personal remuneration that he was not doing battle some twenty years ago. In those days "the fighter had to take a chance." If he won he was entitled to the big end of the purse, and when he lost he was content with the short end that goes to the vanquished. Not so today, however. They like Shylock want "thems" in the hand before they enter the ring. All story of winning is attributed to the commercial end of the match.

When we see boys of second and third rate caliber demanding $10,000—win, lose or draw—for a ten-round bout, and then recall wonderful ring acts like Jack Dempsey, who fought championship battles with bare knuckles or skintight gloves for a $250 purse, that was divided between the winner and the loser, it makes us stop and wonder what the famous Shylocks would say were he alive today and read of these demands.

When Dempsey fought Frazier for the championship in a private room in New York he got $175 as his end, and he handed Frazier $100 of this after the battle was over. They were not only fighters in those days, but they were sportsmen with it. They pitied the loser. This may have been caused from the fact that when a man was once defeated for the championship, he generally retired from the ring. Not so now, they are defeated one day and the next they find them leading challenges to come opponent.

The fighter in these days didn't have the steady heated and ventilated club of today with the limits of the bouts laid out in sight. Look at the fight McAniff fought Jim Corbett, Jack should have been in a hospital instead of the prize ring, yet he fought for the championship of the world with skintight gloves some eighty odd rounds before daylight broke up the bout. The next fight one cold winter day in a barn at Beverly Beach, near Brighton. They were fighting for a $2,500 side bet. Now the fighter display the gameness that McAniff did that night. Few know how sick he really was, and Dempsey, who was one of the seconds, told the writer, "I think this fight will be the death of Jack." That'll give an idea of what timber a champion used to have to be made of. It's only since limited bouts constituted championship ships that nine out of every ten of them would have failed as champions fifteen or twenty years ago. Time changes things—doesn't it?

Secretary Robert McCoy, of the Boston Red Sox, has been in Hot Springs, Ark., several weeks making preparations for the champions' training next spring.

"HUGHIE" JENNINGS OPPOSED TO DRINK AND SMOKE HABIT.

Greensburg, Pa., Nov. 29.—"Hughie" Jennings, manager of the Detroit Tigers, has placed himself on record as being opposed to the use of intoxicating liquors and cigarettes, if one desires to be strong physically and successful in life.

In a letter sent to the manager of the boys' department, on the opening of their new rooms, Jennings says in part: "No boy, no matter how strong his constitution or his ability to lead in any profession or in athletic sports, can hope to continue to be successful if he does not give proper attention to the care of his body. Drinking should not be thought of because the drink habit has ruined young men of great promise. Cigarette smoking, in my opinion, is on a par with drinking; in fact, I would rather see a son of mine drink intoxicating beverages than have him smoke cigarettes, which are an abomination."

MORE DEFECTIVES AMONG MICHIGAN FIRST YEAR MEN

The physical examination of the men of the present freshmen class has just been completed by Dr. May, the gymnasium director. Every freshman is given two physical tests, one at the beginning, the other at the close of his first year in college. In the first instance, a chart, plotted to indicate the student's condition, serves as a basis for the prescription of exercises to be employed by the student. At the close of the year another chart shows the progress attained in gymnasium classes during the year.

More than this, the family history as it bears upon the student's physical inheritance is carefully recorded. All students who show a predisposition to disease are advised to consult a university physician and are held to a regular program of exercises.

There are 814 men in the first year class this fall, an increase of more than 100 over last year's enrollment. The average age is 18.1 years, although 19.9 in the 1911 class, though the latter outwitted the former by five-tenths of a pound to a man. The last year freshmen weighed the present class by one-half inch in height and three-tenths cubic inches in lung capacity.

A comparison of afflictions is afforded by the following table:

Color blindness	Freshmen	This yr.
Color blindness	3	227
Eye troubles, necessitating glasses	264	331
Nasal troubles	291	119
Discolored tonsils	86	89
Adenoids	78	87
Curvature of spine	78	24
Enlarged hearts	14	25
Fur troubles	26	42
Gloire	16	12
Hernia	10

Eighty-nine men out of the 814 have been summoned for a special examination for tuberculosis. This number includes those whose family history indicates a predisposition to the disease and those whose lungs show the slightest symptoms of affection. Every precaution is taken to stamp out incipient disease and to correct any faulty development.

Pitcher Cullip, of the New Orleans team, pitched a no-hit game against the Cuban team when the Pelicans were in Havana recently.

TWO FOOTBALL RULES FAILED

One Cannot Be Enforced—The Other Has Not Been

There are two rules in football this year which are useless, one by virtue of the fact that it cannot be enforced and the other because the officials have made little or no attempt to carry it out. The first is that in which it is forbidden to bring a lineman back of the line of scrimmage to run with the ball and then play him in the line on the defense, and the second is the ruling regarding interference with men eligible to receive a forward pass.

The rule which states that a lineman cannot be drawn back on the line of scrimmage and used as an offensive back and then be played in the line of scrimmage on the defense is useless because it can be got around by playing the man in the backfield all the time, except on the defense. A ruling forbids the playing of a lineman in the backfield on the offense, but there is nothing which states that a back cannot be played in the line on the defense. The first ruling is therefore rendered void by the lack of a ruling concerning the last.

If a team had an exceptionally good defensive lineman, who is at the same time capable of carrying the ball well by the first ruling he cannot be used on the offensive in the backfield and then in the line on the defense. The converse of this does not hold true, though, and there is nothing to hinder the playing of such a man in the line on the defense if he is slated in the backfield on the offense. In other words, while there is a ruling regarding the offensive play of a lineman, there is nothing which curtails the position of a backfield man on the defense.

The other rule which has received scant recognition on the part of the officials this year is that which forbids a defensive player to interfere with any man on the offense who is eligible to receive a forward pass. That ruling is all right, but the fact is to be found with it is the fact that the officials will not recognize it, and it has come to be a common thing for coaches to take advantage of the lack of enforcement by teaching their backs to go after the man and spill him. It is also common for coaches to send down an extra man with the one who is to catch the pass and spill the defensive player.

When the rules committee meets next month it will find some work cut out for it to remedy the first-mentioned ruling, and it can either modify the latter or else recommend that the offense adhere to it more strictly.

TICKET SPECULATION.

Harvard Authorities Send Detectives After Guilty.

The authorities of the Harvard Athletic Association have been on the trail of the students at Cambridge who have been speculating with their allotted football tickets this fall as never before.

The result of having a number of detectives at work tracing the various tickets for the Dartmouth, Princeton and Yale games has been that the Harvard blacklist, which before the beginning of the season numbered over 200 names, has been materially increased. In fact, more names have been added this fall than ever before.

CHANCE PACKS UP HIS HOUSEHOLD GOODS FOR CALIFORNIA SHIPMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—The last tie that bound Ex-Manager Frank Chance, of the Cubs, to Chicago, was severed today when a force of furniture packers invaded his north side home and began preparing his household goods for shipment to California. Chance was receiving offers to purchase his home, and it was believed a deal would be consummated within the next few days.

BEELL'S HAT IN RING.

Anxious to Meet Topnotchers on Wrestling Mat.

Marshallfield, Wis., Nov. 29.—Fred Beell is hard at training with the idea of making the middleweight limit of 155 pounds. The little giant is doing all of the regulation training stunts on his farm, one of the chief forms of setting the weight off his competitor little frame being to follow his dog's footprints miles through the Wisconsin woods in search of game.

If Freddy can get down to the middleweight limit—the weight at which he wrestled and defeated the Cuban wonder in his last match at the stipulated poundage of that class, he is going to issue a deft to Yokel, Gehring, Willoughby and Miller. People here say that Beell can defeat any middleweight in the world.

HOCKEY WAR IN CANADA.

Teams Outbidding Each Other For Best Players.

Hockeyites in Canada are having a regular little war to secure talented puck chasers. In opposition to the National Hockey association, another league has been formed on the Pacific coast.

These two bodies are fighting tooth and nail to grab the stars. The Pacific coast hockey league, are now said to be raiding the eastern part of Canada, offering stars big inducements to go west and display their skill in that organization. The Wanderers, professional champions of the world, have already lost four of their men. Montreal, Ottawa and Quebec teams are suffering heavily.

WITH THE BOXERS

The followers of the boxing game in New York are anticipating a great clash when Eddie McGoorty and Mike Gibbons meet on Dec. 1.

It looks like a little more easy money for Johnny Kilbane when the champion meets Monte Attell in Cleveland on December 4.

George Mermic, who is boxing under the name of Fred Corbett, has been making quite a clean-up of late among the boxers in the Northwest.

The New Orleans promoters have cancelled the proposed Matty Baldwin-Joe Sherman bout, as Baldwin intends to leave shortly for the Pacific coast.

Bombardier Wells is willing to return to America but asserts that he must receive $5,000 before he boxes anyone. Nothing stirring for the Bombardier.

Now that Ledoux, the French bantamweight, has defeated Battling Reidy, he will perhaps be matched to box either Johnny Colon or Kid Williams.

Freddie Welsh has agreed to give Matt Wells another chance for the lightweight championship of England. The pair will probably meet early next year.

Houghton County Judge Sees Evidence of Progress

Judge Patrick H. O'Brien, of Houghton, judge in the twelfth judicial circuit, was in Detroit, Tuesday on a short business visit to relatives and friends, and in an interview with the Detroit Times said:

"Progressive sentiment in the upper peninsula is booming. Not necessarily sentiment favoring the Progressive party, but there is a movement toward better ideals in government, toward better social service. If there had been no third party ticket in the field, I believe Gov. Wilson would have carried the northern peninsula with ease."

"The so-called revolution in the northern counties is not a sudden thing. Sentiment has been changing for years. That was evidenced by the victory of W. Frank James as state senator from Houghton county and by the defeat of 'Stony' Monroe, of Gogebic, two years ago. Still we were unprepared for such a change as the election of McDonald over H. O. Young."

"The mining companies have ceased to pay as much attention to elections as they once did. The mine owners and operators were fairly well split this year; some were Progressives and some were Democrats, but I suppose the bulk of them favored Taft."

"I was glad to see that the parties paid as much attention to the upper counties as they did. It woke our people up to be the objects of a vicious campaign. They began to realize the importance of the issues. Hereafter it will take a great deal of work to swing those counties for any party."

PROGRAM AT THE PEOPLES'

Eccentric Dancers Entertain Large Crowds at Playhouses.

Those who love to see good old fashioned negro dancing and to hear the plantation songs sung as they should be sung, will find a pair of artists at the Peoples' theater of Laurium. Rogers and Wiley are a team of exceptionally able singers and dancers and last evening kept a crowded house in an uproar. One of the big features of the act is an eccentric dance, composed of a mixture of all the well known styles and which continues for about eight minutes. The Hudspeaths, a pair of gymnasts, provide another good feature for the Peoples' program.

There will be a complete change of pictures today and another complete change for tomorrow several excellent features having been secured. Manager Charles S. Oakes arrived home today from Chicago, where he arranged for some special attractions to be presented.
